

DISTINGUISHED FULBRIGHT AWARDS IN TEACHING PROGRAM

APPLICATION FOR INTERNATIONAL TEACHERS

2012 – 2013

Funded by

The Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs of the U.S. Department of State

Administered by

The Academy for Educational Development (AED)

THE FULBRIGHT PROGRAM

The flagship international educational exchange program sponsored by the U.S. Government, widely known as the Fulbright Program, is designed to increase mutual understanding between the people of the United States and the people of other countries. With this goal as a starting point, the Fulbright Program has provided more than 300,000 participants – chosen for their academic and leadership potential – with the opportunity to study, teach and conduct research, exchange ideas and contribute to finding solutions to shared international concerns. Currently, the Fulbright Program operates in over 155 countries worldwide.

The Fulbright Program was established in 1946 under legislation introduced by Senator J. William Fulbright of Arkansas. The Fulbright Program is administered by the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs of the United States Department of State.

Since the establishment of the Fulbright Program, more than 114,000 Americans and 186,000 participants from other countries have benefited from the Fulbright experience.

FUNDING AND ADMINISTRATION

The primary source of funding for the Fulbright Program is an annual appropriation made by the United States Congress to the Department of State. Participating governments and host institutions in foreign countries and in the United States also contribute financially through cost-sharing and indirect support, such as salary supplements, tuition waivers, and university housing.

The J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board (FSB), composed of 12 educational and public leaders appointed by the President of the United States, formulates policy for the administration of the program, establishes criteria for the selection of candidates and approves candidates nominated for awards.

The United States Department of State, Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs develops policies to assure fulfillment of the purposes of the Fulbright Program and administers it with the assistance of binational commissions and foundations in 50 countries, United States Embassies in 100 other countries and a number of cooperating agencies in the United States.

Fulbright Commissions abroad propose the annual country programs, which establish the number and categories of grants based on input from participating universities and organizations in the host country. They also screen, interview, and recommend the candidates for Fulbright grants. In a country without a commission or foundation, the Public Affairs Section of the U.S. Embassy develops the program and supervises it locally.

The Academy for Educational Development (AED) is a nonprofit organization working globally to improve education, health, civil society and economic development. As a Fulbright partner organization it conducts program outreach, organizes the selection of program participants and the U.S. host university, supports international teachers based in the United States, works with the host universities and mentors, and administers alumni programs.

Distinguished Fulbright Awards in Teaching Program Overview

Sponsored by the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, U.S. Department of State, the Distinguished Fulbright Awards in Teaching program recognizes and encourages excellence in teaching in the U.S. and abroad. It is part of the overall Fulbright Program, named in honor of Senator William Fulbright, which promotes mutual understanding among people of the United States and other countries. The program sends highly accomplished primary and secondary teachers from the U.S. abroad and brings international teachers to the U.S. for a semester-long program.

International participants will be placed at a U.S. host university within a respected school of education. The host university will provide a broad range of resources in the teachers' fields of expertise. International teachers who are selected to participate in the Distinguished Fulbright Awards in Teaching program will 1) enroll in advanced undergraduate or graduate level classes, 2) work toward the completion of an action-based research project of their own design, 3) team-teach in local schools and/or conduct seminars or workshops for U.S. teachers; and 4) engage in other teaching related activities. Upon returning home, participants will be expected to share the knowledge and experience gained on the program with teachers and students in their home schools and with their communities.

Program dates are from late August to mid-December, 2012.

Criteria

- Teachers of any subject may apply;
- Primary and secondary teachers, individuals involved in their training and support, and teacher trainers from Argentina, Mexico, Morocco, and South Africa are eligible to apply;
- The deadline for applications is December 15, 2011. Selected participants will begin in the fall of 2012.

Applicants must:

- Hold citizenship and be residents in one of the following countries during the 2012-2013 program: Argentina, Finland, India, Israel, Mexico, Morocco, Singapore, or South Africa;
- Be full time teachers, teacher trainers, or educators who engage in educational activities that support teachers. For the purpose of determining eligibility, "full-time" refers to applicants who are currently employed full time or who hold a combination of positions that add up to full time equivalency in a school, school district, or educational institution at the local, state/provincial, or national level;
- Be in at least the fifth year of full-time teaching;
- Demonstrate experience conducting and leading professional development activities;
- Demonstrate accomplishment in teaching or have previously received teaching awards or exemplary evaluations;
- Possess a paper based TOEFL score of at least 550 (213 Computer Based TOEFL, 79 Internet Based TOEFL) or an IELTS score of 6.5.

Financial Arrangements

Program costs such as tuition, room and board, and transportation are covered by the Fulbright grant. Participants will receive a maintenance allowance designed to assist with the costs of food and lodging during the U.S. program. Distinguished Teachers will also have the opportunity to apply for professional enrichment funds during their program to support development, research, or cover expenses of attending a conference or workshop related to their fields of teaching expertise.

Note: Dependents may accompany program participants; all dependants' expenses, however, will be paid for by the grantee.

Application Guidelines

In addition to completing the application and providing the requested signatures, applicants must include:

- A resume or CV demonstrating that the applicant meets all the eligibility criteria;
- University transcripts;
- Sabbatical Leave Authorization form;
- Administrator Referral form (from principal or department head);
- Two letters of recommendation;
- Typed responses to the application questions;
- Copies of any teaching awards the applicant has received;
- Project proposal.

Distinguished Teacher Selection

Following a technical review of applications by participating Fulbright Commissions and other international partners (depending on each country), AED will convene an independent selection committee in Washington, D.C. The Selection Committees, consisting of program alumni, teachers, and administrators, evaluate candidates for their professional qualifications, motivation, seriousness of purpose, adaptability, and commitment to the program as evidenced in their written applications, particularly the action-based research project proposal. The Committee then recommends selected applications for further consideration and approval by the J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board (FSB). All candidates will be notified of their status in March.

U.S. Host University

The opportunity to host international Distinguished Teachers will be publicized to nationally recognized Schools of Education at universities throughout the United States. Universities interested in hosting international teachers will submit a proposal for review, evaluation, and recommendation by an independent selection panel for approval by the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs of the U.S. Department of State.

Host university staff members, led by a program coordinator, are responsible for facilitating access to a variety of pedagogical and subject resources and academic experts to program participants. University staff will support the Distinguished Teachers' integration into campus life, their involvement with the host community, and opportunities to visit or teach in local primary and secondary schools. They will also consult with participants and other host university staff to arrange appropriate housing and transportation for the teachers.

Participant Activities

Grantees will be expected to produce a final action-based research project at the end of the program, with the form and content of the project proposed at the time of application; projects should encourage cross-cultural dialogue and support future teaching activities. The host university will assign each participant a mentor who will help guide and refine participants' project ideas. Participants should be creative in developing program activities that will enhance their project and contribute to its successful implementation. Each international teacher will be encouraged to give presentations on their project activities, and to compile written reflections and photographic or other records of their U.S. experiences.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Please read this booklet carefully before completing the application to be sure that you meet eligibility requirements for the program. Applications are not considered complete until all of the forms listed on the "Application Checklist" (p.v) are filled out properly and received by the appropriate administering partner. All forms and recommendations on the checklist must be submitted by the application deadline.

Special Instructions:

J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Form (p. A1)

This page, A1, follows the Application Checklist page. It must be completed and returned along with your application. This form is especially important as the Foreign Scholarship Board (FSB) is the body that approves the award. This form MUST be filled out COMPLETELY. Please remember to review the form carefully for omissions and spelling errors.

In section L, you should provide a brief general description of what you expect to gain professionally and personally from participating in the Distinguished Fulbright Awards in Teaching Program. Since this form will be forwarded to the FSB under separate cover and is distinct from the short essay questions and the action-based research project proposal on page A7 of the application, please do not make reference to other sections of your application or specific country choices in this summary.

Application (pp. A2 to A8)

If additional space is needed, enter information in Item X, "Remarks" or use additional sheets. Identify the item number to which the remark applies. Fill out the application forms completely and sign page A8 before you mail in a hard copy of the document; use additional sheets for continuation purposes only. Do not simply say "see attached" or refer to your resume.

Approval and References (p. R1 to R8)

All approvals and references are due by December 15, 2011. Pages R1 to R8 comprise four approval and reference forms. The applicant should complete Item 1 on each form and then give it to the appropriate colleague or official. The referee must fill out the form completely and sign it where indicated. Each form should be submitted in a separate envelope with the referee's signature across the flap on the back; all four envelopes should be submitted with the hard copy of your application.

"Sabbatical Leave Authorization" Form (p. R1 to R2)

The official who completes and signs the "Sabbatical Leave Authorization" form must be the official authorized to approve participation in the program, grant a leave of absence, and approve salary arrangements. Applicants should discuss their application to the program with their administrator in advance and should be aware that their application will not be considered without the administrator's approval. Approval of leave with (or without) pay does not affect the candidate's participation in the program; applicants are eligible whether or not salaries are provided by their home schools during the grant period.

Reference Forms (pp. R3 to R8)

The references should be completed and signed by individuals familiar with the applicant's professional work. The "Administrator Referral" form, on pages R3-R4, must be completed by the applicant's supervising administrator: he/she must rate the candidate, and respond to five questions about the applicant. The "Letter of Recommendation" forms, on pages R5-R8, are to be completed by an educator able to comment on the applicant's strengths and weaknesses. Referees should place the completed form in a sealed envelope signed across the back flap and clearly marked "Reference for (applicant's name)." Applicants should not include performance evaluations with their applications. Other commendations and awards may be listed on page A4 under "Previous awards and academic achievements."

Transcripts

Applicants must provide official transcripts for each university attended. All transcripts should be sent directly to the applicant to be included in the application packet.

In general, we prefer that the entire hard copy of the application (including the application form, short essays, project proposal, resume, references, award copies, and transcripts) be submitted in one complete packet.

Miscellaneous

Applicants must inform the Distinguished Fulbright Awards in Teaching Program in writing of:

- a change of address, phone number, or email;
- a change of plans affecting the application;
- a desire to withdraw the application;
- an application to teach or study abroad under another program;
- a termination of teaching contract;
- a change in assignment or school administration.

APPLICATION QUESTIONS

Please type responses to the following questions on a separate sheet of paper. Please remember to answer every question (500 word maximum per question).

1. Provide a short narrative picture of yourself. This should include personal history and focus on influences on your intellectual development, educational and cultural opportunities (or lack of them) you have had, and ways in which these experiences have impacted you and your career. You may include any special interests or abilities.
2. Have you received exemplary recognition/prizes/awards in recent years? Please cite examples.
3. What experience do you have conducting professional development activities in your school, district, state, or nation?
4. Explain what qualities you possess that make you well suited to collaborate with educators in another country.

PROJECT PROPOSAL

One of the main components of the Distinguished Fulbright Awards in Teaching Program is the design and completion of an action-based research project. Please provide a narrative describing the project that you propose to undertake while in your preferred host country on the Distinguished Fulbright Awards in Teaching program. The project narrative should be three pages in length, double spaced, and in 12-point font; all points below must be addressed. We encourage the use of headings or bullets to organize your proposal narrative. The action-based research project is intended to be practice-based and is not designed to support the development of dissertations or other research activities (please note that PhD students and researchers are encouraged to apply for the Fulbright Scholars Program).

Action-based research project proposals must:

- ✓ Clearly identify the project's title, purpose, and objectives;
- ✓ Discuss how your project relates to your professional and academic experiences and how it will enhance your professional development and career goals;
- ✓ Explain your ideas for implementing your proposal, including an outline of your methodology for creating a successful project, a brief bibliography of related sources/literature, and viability for use of your completed project in your home institution;
- ✓ Address why your preferred host country is particularly well suited for pursuing your project;
- ✓ Explain how you plan to assess the impact of your project; and
- ✓ Describe how your project will benefit educational and school communities in the United States AND your host country.

International teachers who are selected to participate in the Distinguished Fulbright Awards in Teaching program will 1) enroll in advanced undergraduate or graduate level classes; 2) work toward the completion of an action-based research project of their own design; 3) team-teach in local schools and/or conduct seminars or workshops for U.S. teachers; and 4) engage in other teaching related activities. Upon returning home, participants will be expected to share the knowledge and experience gained on the program with teachers and students in their home schools and with their communities.

The success of the Distinguished Fulbright Awards in Teaching Program depends greatly upon judgment exercised by school administrators in approving their teachers' participation in the program. By signing the Administrator Referral Form you confirm your teacher's eligibility for the program. It is important to the reputation of the program, as well as to the reputations of the home country's educational system and the recommending school, that an applicant be approved for participation only if the approving official has no reservations about his or her character, reliability and adaptability and judges him or her to have superior qualifications.

Please return this form to the applicant prior to the December 15, 2011 deadline in a sealed envelope signed across the back flap and clearly marked "Administrator Referral Form for (applicant's name)."

About The Distinguished Fulbright Awards in Teaching Program

The purpose of the Distinguished Fulbright Awards in Teaching Program is to help promote mutual understanding between the people of the United States and the people of other countries through educational exchange. Sponsored by the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, U.S. Department of State, the Program recognizes and encourages excellence in teaching in the U.S. and abroad. It is part of the overall Fulbright Program, named in honor of Senator J. William Fulbright, which promotes mutual understanding among people of the United States and other countries. The program sends highly accomplished primary and secondary teachers from the U.S. abroad and brings international teachers to the U.S for a three- to six-month program.

This highly prestigious program will provide international award recipients with the opportunity to study at a U.S. host university within a respected School of Education. The host university will provide a broad range of resources in the teachers' fields of expertise. International teachers who are selected to participate in the Distinguished Fulbright Awards in Teaching program will 1) enroll in advanced undergraduate or graduate level classes; 2) work toward the completion of an action-based research project of their own design; 3) team-teach in local schools and/or conduct seminars or workshops for U.S. teachers; and 4) engage in other teaching related activities. Upon returning home, participants will be expected to share the knowledge and experience gained on the program with teachers and students in their home schools and within their communities.
